

Ivana Acocella is a Lecturer of Methodology of Social Sciences and Sociology of immigration at University of Florence (Italy). Since 2002, she has taught Methodology and Research Methods for the Social Sciences. Her research focuses on epistemological and methodological assessment of qualitative research approaches. Her main research topic is immigration, with a focus on the second generation and Islam in Europe.